EDU 6960
Developing Accurate and Inclusive Understandings of Indigenous Peoples: A Curriculum Workshop for Elementary and Secondary Educators

Engage your students with culturally responsive activities and resources relating to indigenous peoples! This workshop will provide participants with tools to develop accurate and inclusive understandings of contemporary indigenous peoples and to incorporate those understandings into K-12 literacy, mathematics, science, and social studies lessons. Participants will have the opportunity to dialogue with experts from several different Native Nations and will explore a variety of curricular resources. Particular emphasis will be placed on the experiences of the Native peoples whose historical territories include the State of Utah.

Dates: July 26, 28 & August 2, 4, 2022
Time: 12:00-3:00 pm
Credit: 1 University of Utah Credit
Instructors: Connor Warner and Cynthia Benally
Registration Fee: $100

Register: https://uite.utah.edu/summer-course-schedules/

Course is offered online using the Canvas Learning System accessible through the University’s Campus Information System (CIS) to complete coursework. Log in information will be provided in a confirmation email.